A Bit of Irish History

The Irish Wolfhound

A true gentle giant, the Irish wolfhound has imposing stature but a calm demeanor that makes it a wonderful companion. This sighthound is the tallest of the AKC-recognized dog breeds and tops out at nearly 36 inches at the shoulder and more than 100 pounds.

Also referred to as the 'Wolfdogs of Ireland' or 'the Great Hounds of Ireland,' this breed has a long and storied history as a hunter but today is best known for being a lovable family dog.

The history of the Irish wolfhound stretches back centuries, to the time of the earliest trade between the British Empire and the Middle East. The earliest account of the breed is believed to be from described seven Irish hounds he received as a gift as being objects of intense interest and wonder by the Roman citizens.

Roman Consul Quintus Aurelius who in 391

The Irish wolfhound is considered a native dog breed of Ireland. With little competition in terms of stature, these tall and lanky stand head and shoulders above most other dog breeds. And while their gentle demeanor made them loyal companions, their fierce hunting nature earned their keep.

It's believed that the breed was originally utilized as a hunting dog. Ireland's native wolf population was kept in check—and eventually hunted to extinction—by these hounds of tremendous size.

Additionally, Irish nobility and land owners used the wolfhound to hunt Irish elk (also now extinct) along with other game, like boar.

While these dogs clearly have Gaelic roots and played a key role in the early history of the Emerald Isle, it's unclear as to exactly what contributed to the gene pool that became the Irish wolfhound breed. Some sources believe that the largest of Britain's hounds were bred to sighthounds from the Middle East—and the Irish wolfhound's graceful limbs and carriage certainly seem to point to the greyhound as an early influencer in the breed.

Whatever the case, the wolfdog was highly coveted in early Irish life. In fact, the number of wolfhounds a person could own was determined by social status and position. Estate owners and nobility viewed the hounds as prize possessions, and the dogs served to hunt and protect the land.

It would seem that nothing could challenge the wolfhound's commanding position as a hunter, guardian, and companion. However, the breed began to decline and was on the brink of scarcity by the mid-1800's. Ireland's native wolves and the oversize Irish elk became extinct, reducing the need for such a large-scale hunting companion.

One man is often credited with helping to preserve the Irish wolfhound as we know it today. George Augustus Graham, a captain in the British army, began a concentrated effort to locate and develop a breeding program that would ensure the survival of the wolfhound and standardize the breed as we know it today. By the 1900's, the wolfhound began to attract the fancy of American kennels and dog owners. The breed gained official AKC recognition in 1897.

40th Anniversary Bobby Sands Death

On May 5th, 1981, Bobby Sands died in the H-Block prison hospital at Long Kesh, the Maze prison outside Belfast. Sands was elected a Member of Parliament for Fermanagh/South Tyrone while he was jailed. He embarked on the fatal hunger strike while imprisoned for activities related to the IRA's armed campaign against the British government.

Sands's death launched enormous reaction around the world; hundreds of thousands marched in support of the prisoners' demands, a statement of "deep regret" was issued by the US government, Irish unions waged strikes, newspapers around the world condemned Mrs Thatcher to allow a fellow member of parliament to die, and riots flared up on the streets of Northern Ireland.

CLOSING THOUGHT/PRAYER

Hail glorious Saint Patrick, we honor thy name

Tho' Erin may claim thee, the world knows thy fame

The faith of our fathers is our treasure too

How holy that faith that they learned from you

Through crosses and trials its fires burn bright

It shows us the way, the truth and the light

Great Saint intercede, that we always may be Devoted and loyal true children of our heavenly father

And the Blessed Mother and thee

Our faith and devotion be ever like thine

Our thoughts be of Jesus,
Our hearts, minds and souls

be his shrine

And when to the end of life's path we have trod

Be near and intercede for us great bishop of God

The Msgr. Charles Kelly, Jr. Division of the Ancient Order of Hibernians was formed in December, 2009 and conducted its first meeting on January 21, 2010 at St. John Neumann Church, Powhatan, Virginia. The next few meetings were taken up with election of officers and the many procedural items needed to get our group started.

Since that time we continue to grow, adding new members and supporting and donating to Catholic schools and Churches in the area, in line with our commitment to Friendship, Unity and Christian Charity.

THE IMPORTANCE OF PRAYER

Take into consideration all those on our prayer list as well as those among the faithful departed. We are supporting the Knights of Columbus at St. John Neumann parish with their rosary tabulation (one million rosaries is the K of C goal). As our past state president used to encourage us, "Pray the Rosary." We have a LOT to pray for and pray about. In addition to those mentioned above we have a lot at stake in this upcoming election in November. I hope the US Constitution and the part about religious freedom still applies.
